Clair Lukens, who was injured while taking paratroop training in the U.S., arrived home on leave Friday, the 28th.

Charles Hockett, in training with the Canadian army, was home on leave last week-end.

Lawrence Mikkelsen, of the R.C.O.C. was home on leave last Monday.

Mr. Webster received word last week that Mack had returned his wings at Macleod air station on the 24th and a commission the next day.

Pte. Eldon Herbert wrote home recently from England, and said he had received cigarettes from the Irma cigarette committee, for which he is very thankful.

UNITED THEY SUCCEED, DIVIDED THEY FALL

"As individuals, 6,000,000 farmers are divided, their future as individuals in this country is nothing more than peasantry and slavery. We have passed the stage in the expansion of our nation where small individuals and agriculture can hold their own," said John Brandt, head of the National Cooperative Milk Producers Federation, in an address at the annual meeting of this organization last week. Only by co-operation and close organization in a single unit can the farmers achieve the bargaining power that is beyond the individual farmer, and that will bring them success in this day and age, he said.—The Producer.

JOHNSON—INKIN

A very pretty wedding took place in the Sharon Lutheran church when Lillian Gladys Inkin, daughter of Mrs. Inkin and the late William Inkin, of Irma, was married to Alvin Leroy Johnson, of Jarrow, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Johnson. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. B. Steele.

Given in marriage by her brother-in-law, E. H. Hobbs, of Edmonton, the bride wore a toe length gown of white sheer, fashioned on simple lines. Her fingertip-length veil was held in place with a spray of orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Gwendoline Inkin, the bride's sister, was her bridesmaid. She wore a toe length gown of pale blue sheer with a wreath of apple blossoms in her hair. Her flowers were white carnations.

Eveline Hobbs of Edmonton, a niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a toe length gown of pink taffeta, trimmed with lace and black velvet ribbon, and a wreath of orange blossoms in her hair. She carried a bouquet of mixed garden flowers.

William Edward Inkin, brother of the bride, was best man.

During the signing of the register, Mr. Pete Spring sang "Oh, Perfect Love," accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Reitan, who was organist at the ceremony.

After the ceremony a reception to 25 guests was held at the bride's home. The bride's table, laid in a white linen cloth, was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake. The young couple will make their home on the groom's farm south of Jarrow.

NAGY—TATE

Ethel Louise, eldest daughter of Mrs. Tate and the late Mr. R. J. Tate, Irma, was married in marriage to George, youngest son of Louis Nagy, Valley View, Alta., on Friday evening, September 18, at the United church manse, Wainwright by Rev. A. D. Richards. After a pleasant week-end the bride resumed her duties as teacher at the Platel school and the groom returned to his work at Dawson Creek.

M.D. MINBURN ACCEPTS OFFER

Probably the most contentious question that has occupied the time of the councillors of the M.D. of Minburn since it took office last April, has been that of "where shall the office be located?"

Well, now it can be told: It will be in Mannville. This decision was arrived at by a 5 to 2 vote at the last meeting of the M.D. held in Viking.

The village of Mannville has offered the M.D. $1200.00 with which it can use to enlarge the present Mannville (Melberta) premises and, of course, the council have thus accepted same.—Mirror.

Measuring a Circular Bin And a Cone of Wheat

Many farmers are building temporary bins out in the open, using either bundles of wheat or wire fencing, or snow fencing for a wall. Some want to know how to calculate how much wheat such circular bins will hold.

Snow fencing, for instance, comes in 100 foot rolls and is 4 feet high. Two feet is required for an overlap leaving a circle 98 feet in circumference.

First find the diameter. Multiply 98 x 7 and divide by 22. This gives 31.2 feet diameter. Now multiply the diameter by itself, then by 4 for the height of the bin, and then by the constant figure of 61 and strike off the last two whole numbers of the product, like this:

31.2 x 31.2 x 4 x 61 = 237519, making 2,375 bushels contained in the bin to the foot of the fence.

Now for the cone of wheat on top of the bin. Multiply the diameter by itself and then by itself again, then by the figure 45, and strike off the last three whole numbers. Like this:

31.2 x 31.2 x 31.2 x 45 = 1366700, making 1,366 bushels contained in the cone.

The total contents of the bin when brim-full, and including the cone on the top, will be 3,741 measured bushels of wheat at 60 lbs. to the bushel.

This formula can be used for any size circular bin and it is correct to a half of 1%. Remember the two constant figures—61 for the base of the bin and 45 for the cone. (These constants can only be used for calculating circular bins, not for square bins).

DO NOT BUY FRESH CUTS BACON OR HAM

An appeal to the people of Canada not to buy pork, particularly fresh cuts of bacon or ham, during the next few weeks is made by the dominion department of agriculture. The reason for this appeal is that Britain may continue to receive from Canada shipments of bacon and ham, so urgently needed for military and civilian needs. The strain of war on the people of Britain makes nourishing food more important to them. Proper diets can be maintained by steady shipments of essential foods—and one of them is pork in the form of bacon and ham.

Until early in November at least, Canadians can make up their menus with cheese, beans, chicken, turkey, eggs, fish, fresh vegetables and cereals. They can also buy the following pork products which are not needed for export to Britain: pork tenderloin, head cheese, pigs' feet, pigs' knuckles, and pork sausage.

In Canada there is still plenty of a variety of nourishing foods, but it is different in Britain. There luxury foods are unknown and most staple foods are rationed. Do not buy fresh cuts of bacon or ham during the next few weeks in order to help Britain to continue to receive agreed-upon shipments.

JARROW SHIPS CARLOAD OF SCRAP IRON

Jarrow district loaded a car of scrap iron last week by the main strength and ingenuity of the two elevator agents, Mickey McMillan and Ted Grafts, the station master, Phil Croxson, and the minister, Rev. J. D. Woollett. There's nearly enough scrap for another car waiting to be loaded. Bring in the balance to the "Jarrow Scrap to Slap a Jap" committee.

Monday, October 12, is Thanksgiving Day and will be observed as such throughout the dominion. All stores and business places, and banks and schools will be closed all day.

Chopped cooked chicken mixed with almonds and salad dressing makes a delicate filling for party white bread sandwiches.

A. F. U. Notes

(From the Viking News)

The canners of soup in the U.S. with one exception, fought to the last ditch the proposal of the government to save tin by putting more soup and less water in the cans. The Columbia Canvase Co. demonstrated that the soups could be further concentrated by about 50 per cent, but then the Columbia Canvase Co. is the packer of cop-table soups for a thousand consumer co-op stores from coast to coast. All the other canners swore that canned soup is now condensed to the limit and they claimed that consumers simply would not buy soup condensed to more than four servings in a can.

The consumer wasn't there to speak for him at the War Production took the Columbia Canvase Co.'s demonstration as conclusive, but mixing mercy with justice set a less drastic minimum standard—or no cans.

The foregoing is just another example of what producers are up against, or a question of organization.

BANK OF MONTREAL CROP REPORT No. 12

Sept. 24—Intermittent rains and cool weather in the prairie provinces have further delayed the harvesting operations, which are about three weeks later than usual. Cutting of all grains is now about 75 per cent completed and threshing about 25 per cent. Operations are farthest advanced in the Peace River districts in Alberta. Frost has been frequent and, coupled with the wet weather, have resulted in a general lowering of grades. The dominion government estimates the production of wheat of the prairies at 587,000,000 bushels compared with 293,000,000 bushels in 1941, and coarse grains at 804,000,000 bushels, compared with 289,000,000 bushels. Labor is scarce and a shortage of storage space exists. Pastures are in excellent condition. In Quebec province, harvesting operations are nearing completion under satisfactory conditions, and crops generally are well up to the average both in yield and quality. Potatoes will be a below average crop owing to rot, but other roots are satisfactory. Apples are plentiful. In Ontario, threshing returns have shown above average yields of spring grains. Cutting of a good crop of corn has now begun. Sugar beets and other roots are making good progress, with satisfactory yields in prospect. Harvesting of tobacco has been practically completed; the crop suffered some damage from recent frosts and the poundage will be below average. In the maritime provinces, harvesting is nearing completion and threshing is in progress. Lack of moisture has adversely affected crops in many districts, but conditions generally remain satisfactory and good average yields are indicated. Rain would be beneficial in many areas. In British Columbia, the gathering of tree fruits is well under way, with most varieties of good quality, and with yields above average. Yields of grains and roots well up to the average are in prospect.

ALBERTA—Rain and light snow have delayed harvesting; reports indicate that approximately 60 per cent of the crop has been cut. Threshing has commenced in a few districts. The dominion government estimates the wheat yield per acre at 29 bushels compared with 15 in 1941. Coarse grain yields will be the highest on record. Heavy frosts have damaged late crops.

Third Victory Loan Opens October 19th

$750,000,000 VICTORY LOAN OPENS OCTOBER 19th

OTTAWA, Sept. 26.—Canada's third Victory Loan will be opened Oct. 19 with an objective of $750,000,000, Finance Minister Isley announced today.

Denominations and maturities of the bonds to be sold, and the rates of interest to be paid will be announced later.

The last Victory Loan, held in February, had a $600,000,000 nominal objective but was greatly over subscribed.

In a brief statement released at the same time as minister's announcement, G. W. Spinney, chairman of the National War Finance committee which organizes loan campaigns, said:

"The challenge and the opportunity presented to the Canadian people at this time in the form of the third Victory Loan may well prove to be a matter of consequence in the winning of the war."

"Canadian people have responded with alacrity in the past when the need was pointed out."

"That need now is increased to the degree that every thought, every effort and every penny must be devoted to ensuring the success of the forthcoming loan."

CANADIAN SACRIFICE?

"Sacrifice? Do not let us prostitute the nobility and the beauty of that word. Sacrifice is a reverent, God-given word reserved for the men and women who have made a free-will offering of their lives upon the altar of freedom; for the children of China who have died by thousands beneath their unprotected skies; for the hostages of France; for those who lie in the long common graves of Coventry and for the gaunt, grey figures searching the gutters of Athens for a scrap to eat."

"Who are we, in this lush and lavish land to prate of sacrifice because we may have to go without a new coat this winter; give up membership in a club or two; eat less expensive meals, cut down on our liquor; walk instead of ride to work; move in a cheaper apartment; humble our pride by taking in boarders; labor a little harder ourselves to save acquiring extra help? If these things be sacrifice then what is this hollow thing which others are doing upon the battle fronts of the world where our fight is being fought so that Canada may remain unspoiled."

The foregoing is taken from an address delivered before the 23rd annual convention of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association held in Saskatoon, by G. H. Lash, director of public information for Canada.

ADDRESS TO BE PRINTED ON TRUCKS

Name of any truck owner and his city address must be printed or attached to the sides of trucks, in letters one inch high, by order of the War Time Prices and Trade Board. After November 1, 1942, their radius of operation must not exceed 35 miles from the registered address. This order is designed to prolong the life of existing trucking equipment, in order to maintain essential delivery services. The 35 mile limit does not apply to farm trucks when they are carrying agricultural produce to and from the farm.

Further exemptions are applied to dominion government, provincial and municipal trucks, ambulances, trucks carrying oil, trucks in service for road repair or repair to farm machinery, or carrying tools for this purpose, those engaged in essential public service such as salvage, repair, transportation of log, poles or lumbering equipment to lumber camps.

Request for a special permit to operate beyond the 35 mile limit must be made to any office of the War Time Prices and Trade Board before Sept. 30.

Kitchens should be cheerful and comfortable as well as convenient. A high stool is an aid to comfort in preparing vegetables or mixing ingredients. An attractive corner where the homemaker can sit and read over a new recipe, make out her order list of groceries or wait for a dish to finish cooking, adds considerably to a comfortable kitchen.

SEVEN MILLION FOR WHAT?

During 1941 owners of motor vehicles in Alberta contributed $7,113,958 in the form of licenses and taxes to the provincial government.

These taxes were originally applied to obtain money for good roads, but a large percentage of same is being diverted to other purposes.

The Alberta Motor Association advocates that surplus revenue collected from motorists during the war should be placed in a trust fund (War Loan Bonds) to be used for road building and maintenance when peace comes.

Every owner of a motor vehicle should support this policy.

MRS. MINIVER

Adapted From The Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Picture
By HALSEY RAINES

CHAPTER IV

One of the two hobbies of Mr. Ballard had been of necessity suspended: the church bells were to be rung now only as an emergency alarm; Lady Beldon was still going to hold her flower show, however, and the station-master had definitely decided to enter his "Mrs. Miniver" rose in competition against her.

All this he confided to Mrs. Miniver as he met her in the early morning by the hedge near the river's edge. She listened absent-mindedly, and with heavy heart, for there was no news of Clem.

She had left Mr. Ballard, and was proceeding toward the garden, when she stopped short. Protruding from a clump of shrubs were the feet of a man in German aviator's uniform. Mrs. Miniver took a deep breath, and tiptoed closer. The pilot looked very young; he was asleep and his clothing was torn and stained.

Turning impulsively, Mrs. Miniver began to run. Her foot tripped on a stone and she sent pebbles and sand flying as she caught her balance. All at once a Teutonic voice called out from behind, like an echo.

Mrs. Miniver looked back. She was covered by the risen aviator's pistol. No one was in sight, and probably no one within earshot.

"Make noise—I shoot!" muttered the German. "Food—drink," he continued.

Mrs. Miniver pointed to the house, and beckoned to him to follow. As she watched, she saw that one arm hung helplessly at his side, and that he walked with effort.

When she reached the doorway, and saw the look of suspicion in the wounded flier's eyes, Mrs. Miniver told him that her children and the maid were all asleep upstairs. Her thought now was to ally his fear until she could get away some- how, reach a telephone or give a warning signal. She gave the German some meat and a bottle of milk. Then he asked for a coat; she located an old one belonging to Clem. As the aviator tried it on, keeping his gun still on her, an involuntary cry of pain broke from his tight-closed lips.

"You need help," said Mrs. Miniver. "Your arm is stiff with blood. You must get to a hospital."

The young German shook his head sullenly.

"You'd die out there," continued Mrs. Miniver, gesturing. "You can't escape. They're scouring the woods day and night."

The pilot's only response was a slight, contemptuous twist of his mouth. Finally he turned, and started for the door. He paused, steadying himself against a chair. As he tried to navigate the last ten feet, he stooped, awayed and then crashed headlong, while the gun slipped from his limp hand.

When he regained consciousness Mrs. Miniver, who had phoned the police, was covering him with his own revolver. In response to his appeal, she went to the cupboard and brought out some cognac. She no longer felt frightened or nervous. As she stood facing him, the cut-out signal from an airplane was heard overhead.

Her face lighted up; that was Vin, signalling as he had done once before!

"That's my boy," she said. The German looked at her in surprise. "Did you signal your mother when you got back?" she went on.

"No!" muttered the enemy flier. "We are not so soft like that."

A wave of understanding, a sudden cold appraisal of what was being drilled into the youth of the Rhine-land, of what Clem had tried to tell her, swept over Mrs. Miniver. A minute later two policemen arrived, and took their captive into tow.

When Mrs. Miniver heard a mechanical sound down by the river's brink, a sound she had been waiting for as eagerly as the put-put of Vin's motor, she ran wildly out of the house.

Clem, who was tying up his boot, looked drawn and haggard. The boat was criss-crossed with machine-gun fire. His clothes were rain-soaked and torn.

"Are you all right?" begged Mrs. Miniver, folding him in her arms.

"Fine!" smiled Clem. "But I'm tired. I'd like to get some sleep."

When he had awakened, ten hours later, Mrs. Miniver and Ada, the cook, were standing in the bedroom doorway.

"How about some ham and eggs?" asked Clem, his whole manner one of rejuvenation.

Mrs. Miniver gave all the ham to the German pilot, popped up Ada.

"What?" cried Clem. He turned to his wife. "You mean a German ham was here?" He stared at her. "Did he have a gun?"

"Oh, yes," nodded Mrs. Miniver, "but I took it away and called the police."

Clem dropped back on the bed, and laughed till the tears came. "Gosh! What a woman!" he exclaimed, when he could catch his breath. "And I thought you'd been having a nice, quiet time when I was at Dunkirk!"

Lady Beldon's arrival was not unexpected to Mrs. Miniver. She had foreseen a visit from the first lady of the township ever since Carol and Vin had announced her engagement.

"I think I can guess why you've come," said Mrs. Miniver, taking her hand. "I hope you're as pleased as we are."

"I'm afraid not," said Lady Beldon stiffly. "Why, those two are still in it." She fixed her eyes on Mrs. Miniver. "I think I should tell you, I hope to persuade Carol to wait."

"Wait? It's a Beldon tradition to marry young," asked Mrs. Miniver. "I don't know what you mean."

Lady Beldon knitted her brows. Mrs. Miniver smiled gently. "My daughter Judy," she said, "had a composition to write last week on the Crusades. She brought home a book about an ancestor of yours. I got interested and looked up some other books. What interested me especially was the extreme youth of the Beldons brides. This Gilbert de Beldon who went to the Crusades, married Isabel de Something-or-other, aged twelve!"

Lady Beldon seemed to assume an extra two inches of height. "My dear Mrs. Miniver," she said, "we're not in the Middle Ages!"

"Oh, there were others!" continued Mrs. Miniver, unperturbed. "There was a Findley Beldon-Beldon in the seventeenth century who shared with Elton with the fourteen-year-old."

"Mrs. Miniver," interrupted Lady Beldon, "I didn't come here to chatter pedantic. Carol's eighteen, your boy's not yet twenty—"

"We're at war, Lady Beldon," said Mrs. Miniver gravely. "In wartime time is so precious for the young people." She took the other's arm. "Lady Beldon, you were sixteen yourself when you were married. Did you regret it?"

A fiery look crossed the other woman's eyes. "I've never regretted a husband of it!" she exclaimed. "My husband was in the army—he was killed in action. But I wouldn't want Carol to suffer—as I suffered—" answered Lady Beldon. But then was a marked difference in her manner. All hostility was gone. "Of course," she continued, "you and I know it doesn't really matter what we say."

Mrs. Miniver's eyes twinkled. "You mean, Carol will go her own way?" she asked.

"She's my granddaughter," said Lady Beldon, with an answering twinkle.

Mrs. Miniver looked at her oddly. She didn't quite know how to express herself tactfully. "Then why—"

"Goodness knows!" cut in Lady Beldon. "I was beaten before I started!"

Mrs. Miniver stepped over, sat on the sofa beside her, and placed a hand on her arm.

"You don't want her to be happy, do you?" she asked.

"He's a charming boy," said Lady Beldon. "I see now where he gets it. You're pretty too. Don't wonder that wretched Ballard named his rose after you. Not that he has a chance of taking the cup from me." She paused and added sharply, "Well, as long as we're going to be relatives the least you can do is to offer me some tea."

Were Going By Boat

But Small American Planes Reached Brazil Under Own Power

There is a promise of coming events in the disclosure by Colonel Armando Amorim, the Brazilian air attache, of the arrival of 44 small single-engine American airplanes under their own power at Rio de Janeiro. Fifty-eight pilots and mechanics of the Brazilian Air Force flew 19 four-place cabin monoplanes and 25 primary trainers from the Fairchild factory in Hagerstown, Md., to their goal more than 9,000 miles away without serious variation from schedules set up before departure. This was the largest flyaway delivery of airplanes yet made to South America from the United States. It was necessitated by war conditions. The little planes for the Brazilian Air Force had been going to make the journey in more prosaic fashion. Indeed, they had been crated and delivered to a pier when the submarine menace in the Atlantic caused the change of plan. Returned to the factory, they were reassembled and flown off in groups of six.

In this rapidly evolving era of flight we are beginning to take as a matter of course overnight crossings of the Atlantic by Clipper and journeymen of diplomats and rulers between far-flung capitals, such as the visit of Mr. Churchill to Moscow, in big bombers. We will take such distant journeys by air more and more in our stride as the impact of air power, not only on war but on commerce, becomes still more evident. But for small aircraft with a range of not more than 500 miles to make serenely and without major incident the long trek down to Rio lifts the curtain on a day of greatly expanded private flying which seems sure to link world capitals and world markets—New York Times.

DID YOU KNOW THAT:

A church in Regina, Sask., was built with its back to the street because the Roumanian Orthodox church must face west. As shown in an Associated Screen "Did You Know That" movie short, further difficulty was encountered in installing the bell—it was too heavy for the steeple. So a separate bell tower was constructed alongside the church.

During his five years in the Marine Corps Sergeant Nicholas Windisch of Philadelphia never failed to send his father a birthday telegram. A telegram came on schedule this year and the father, Robert, opened it eagerly. It read: "Your son has been killed in action."

SELECTED RECIPES

QUICK MUFFINS

2 cups all-purpose flour
3/4 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 egg
1 cup milk
3 tablespoons Crown Brand Corn Syrup
2 tablespoons Mazaola
Temperature: 375 degrees F.
Time: 25 minutes.
Method: Sift dry ingredients. To beaten egg, add milk and corn syrup. Make a well in centre of flour; pour in milk mixture, stirring only enough to wet the flour. (Do not beat). Add mazaola; again stir. Pour into muffin tins oiled with mazaola; bake in moderate oven. Yield: 12 muffins.

PICNIC SUPPER DISH

1/2 pound fine noodles or macaroni
2 quarts water
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon flour
1 cup stock
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 pound cooked meat
1 cup oven-popped rice
1 tablespoon melted butter
Dash paprika

Cook noodles in boiling water to which salt has been added. Drain. Melt butter in saucepan, add flour and stock. Stir until thickened. Add salt and pepper. Dice meat and mix with noodles. Add thickened stock. Pour into casserole. Crush oven-popped rice and spread over top. Sprinkle with melted butter and paprika. Bake in moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.) 30 minutes.
Yield: Six servings.
Note: Stock may be made by dissolving two bouillon cubes in two cups boiling water.

SMILE AWHILE

A newly-inducted private wrote his family some few days after he had arrived at camp:

"I've gained 60 pounds since I came here—two pounds of flesh and 58 pounds of equipment."

"I called to make an appointment with the dentist."

"He's out just now."

"Ah, when do you expect him to be out again?"

She (ending a quarrel): "I see now why woman is often called a bird."

He (amazingly): "Yes, because they are always on the lookout for crumbs."

She (quietly): "No, because of the worms they pick up."

"I'm wondering what to buy for my wife's birthday."

"Ask her."

"Good heavens, I couldn't afford that!"

There was a pile of stones in the road and a lamp on the top of it. An old fellow was in charge.

"What's this lamp for?"

"So motorists can see the pile of stones."

"But what's the pile of stones for?"

"To put the lamp on, of course."

Young Wife—Leonard is so slovenly. Half the buttons are generally missing from his clothes.

Severe Aunt—Hm. Perhaps they are not sewn on properly.

"That's just it. He's awfully careless about his sewing."

She—You can take me to dance on the pier tonight if you like, unless (coyly) you meet somebody more attractive in the meantime.

He—I say, that's jolly sporting of you. We'll leave it like that, then, shall we?

"What were those unusual greens we had tonight, cook?"

"You remember, ma'am, you said those geraniums in the garden looked so lovely you could eat them?"

"Yes."

"Well, you have!"

POPULAR GIRL IS SURE OF ETIQUETTE

"Did I Do Something Wrong?"

That ghastly feeling that you've done something wrong, that people are laughing at you (or winning?) may sometimes be perfectly right.

People DO look down on you when you commit some obvious breach of etiquette.

Like walking across a dance-floor alone! After a dance a girl who knows what to do asks her partner to take her back to her friends or wherever she may wish to go.

And a well-bred man, of course, will never leave a girl in the middle of the dance floor—any more than he'd give his order first in a restaurant—or, indeed, to offer his arm to his girl when crossing a crowded street or getting out of a car.

The popular girl knows her part is to receive such courtesies graciously, not with a crude "Don't bother." That's why she's dalled, rushed!

You could be, too, if you were sure of the rules. Our 32-page booklet tells both girls and men how to act on dates—whether dancing, dining, motoring, at the theatre or sports events. Tells what to say in introductions, on the telephone. Discusses office and travel etiquette, petting.

Send 15c in coins for your copy of "Etiquette for Young Moderns" to Home Service Dept., Winnipeg News-paper Union, 175 McDermott Ave. E., Winnipeg, Man. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

IN CASE YOU DON'T

Neal O'Hara, in New York Post, says a young traveller reports that in a Pullman diner, when the coffee in his cup begins to squirm about a bit as the train moves, it'll stop slopping and spilling if he places a spoon in the cup. Of course, that isn't according to Emily Post, but do you want your coffee spilling or don't you?

GOOD CROP OF MOSS

Harvesting of Irish moss, the edible seaweed abounding about the Nova Scotia coast, is becoming an important industry in Yarmouth. Nearly 50 tons have been shipped away this summer, obtaining good prices on the U.S. market.

Come to think of it, the divinity that shapes our ends has nothing on the lady who tries to park directly behind us, says the Windsor Star.

All member and friends are very cordially invited. Final plans for the annual bazaar will be made. So come and bring all your bright ideas.

W.C.T.U. ANNUAL MEETING

At the annual meeting of the Irma W.C.T.U. held on Thursday afternoon, September 24, reports were given of the seventeen departments that have been worked during the twelve months just passed: Evangelistic, Sunday school, scientific temperance instruction, Lord's Day observance, anti-narcotics, social hygiene, Canadianization, prison reform, international relations, ribboners, travellers' aid, literature, medal contests, flower mission and relief, parlor meetings, press, and school of methods. These reports were sent on as read to the provincial superintendents of the respective departments to be compiled for convention and provincial annual report.

The election resulted in the re-installment of the previous executive.

Arrangements were made for a delegate to provincial convention to be held in Edmonton October 13, 14 and 15.

Two new members were enrolled, one active, one honorary.

AUSTRALIA SUGGESTS FARMERS' UNION

A resolution favoring the formation of a National Farmers' Union embracing all primary producers in Australia, membership in which would be made compulsory for all producers by act of parliament, was passed at the annual conference of the Farmers and Settlers Association held in Sydney during the first week of August.

In discussing the resolution "The Land," official organ of the Farmers and Settlers Association, says that such a scheme, if accomplished, would mean the sweeping away of all existing organizations of producers in all the states, together with any political affiliations they may have. The National Farmers Union, if it comes into existence, will be a non-political organization.

On the whole, says "The Land" it seems logical to believe that if all the primary industries had been long ago brought into the framework of the industrial arbitration system, with its fixing of hours, wages and conditions, they would have had much more success in their appeal to the general community for payable prices.

Canada's War Effort

A Weekly Review of Developments on the Home Front.

September 17-24, 1942

1. Philip Murray, president of the C.I.O., appeals to Canadian Congress of Labor Convention for a policy of no strikes for the duration of the war.

2. Munitions Minister Hon. C. D. Howe announces establishment of a new gasoline rationing category for all persons using a car for personal transportation and not for business, reducing the motor fuel available to them, effective October 1.

3. Agricultural Minister Hon. J. G. Gardiner, announces major agricultural program of making use of the vast stores of grain now available and increased output of animal products for Canada and her allies.

4. Canadian destroyer Assiniboine sinks German submarine in western Atlantic, killing its commander and capturing the crew. Naval Minister Angus Macdonald announces.

5. Canada's third Victory Loan will be opened October 19 with objective of $750,000,000, Finance Minister Hon. J. L. Ilsley, announces.

6. Destroyer Ottawa torpedoed. 7. Conservative leader Right Hon. Arthur Meighen announces arrangements are being made for a national convention of the Conservative party.

8. Order to prevent hoarding of steel by manufacturers or its use for non-essential purposes issued by Steel Controller F. B. Kilbourn of the Munitions and Supply Department.

YOU SLEPT WELL THAT NIGHT, DIDN'T YOU?

BUT GEORGE WAS AT DIEPPE!

NICE fellow, George—one of the lads from the office. Remember, you had him out for dinner one night. He made a great fuss over your kids—and your wife was very pleased. And then, all of a sudden, he slipped away and joined up. Left his good job, his girl and his future. And he was at Dieppe, slogging up the beach into a murderous rain of steel—fighting for you and your wife and those kids of yours he played with. And that same night you slept well, didn't you... in a soft bed. You had an egg for breakfast too. But George didn't. And you're still got a good job and you wear good clothes.

And being conscientious, you worry about these things a bit. But you just haven't been able to push yourself into doing much more than pay your taxes. Well, those taxes aren't enough. Think of what George gave up, and then sit down with your wife and ask yourselves, "What else can we do?" Sure, you've given up a few little luxuries. But there are lots of things yet that you can cut down on. Do it gladly. Because you'll really get a kick out of investing the money you save in Victory Bonds, and in knowing you're not letting George do it all.

Just keep thinking about George and what he gave up. And remember, those Victory Bonds you buy aren't giving—they're lending your country money to help protect you. That money will come back to you with interest.

WORK—SAVE AND LEND FOR VICTORY!

NATIONAL WAR FINANCE COMMITTEE

Hail, Hail, the gang's all here! Or they will be when some more of your favorite programs return to the air this week. Your old friends Fibber McGee and Molly are back in their Tuesday 7:30 p.m. spot, along with their Wistful Vista neighbors, with a streamlined show to suit 1942 tastes. Jim and Marian Jordan will again play the neighborhood blowhard and his sympathetic spouse; with Isabel Randolph as Mrs. Uppington, Bill Thompson as Wallace Wimple and the Oldtimer, and Gale Gordon as Mayor LaTrivia. Harlow Wilcox is announcer, with music by Billy Mills and his orchestra, and the King's Men quartet. The Jordans no longer play characters other than Fibber McGee and Molly, since they feel that every time they double a part, they take work away from a radio actor. The only exception to this is Molly's "little girl," whom fans will not let die.

Sunday, October 4, is the day Jack Benny and his radio gang return to the air after their usual summer vacation. Along with Benny will be Mary Livingstone, Dennis Day, Don Wilson and probably Rochester (who is just finishing a picture in Hollywood) to add to the half-hour of fun and nonsense at 5:00 p.m.
